Wish you all a very happy and prosperous New Year!

Hope the New Year brings us better business this festive season.

We, at Hotel and Restaurant Association Western India (HRAWI), are constantly persuading the government towards a common vision for ease of doing business.

We have represented our case for 5% G.S.T on our trade, to the Central Government. We understand that G.S.T rate slabs for each sector will be determined by a group of committee of secretaries.

We request you all, to propagate our goal of reasonable GST, among your contacts, with representatives of the government.

The Hotel and Restaurant Association of Western India (HRAWI), in a bid to remove any ambiguity over selling water, aerated drinks and similar commodities above the Maximum Retail Price (MRP), has issued a circular to its members clarifying that hotels and restaurants could continue to sell the same above the MRP. However, if such commodities are being sold over the counter then it is advised that they be sold at MRP only.

We hope you all enjoy this festive season!

We look forward to your continued support, feedback and participation. ■

Hotel Body Issues Clarification To 'Purported' Minister's Remark

Selling At MRP Not Applicable For Hotels & Restaurants

The Hotel and Restaurant Association of Western India (HRAWI), in a bid to remove any ambiguity over selling water, aerated drinks and similar commodities above the Maximum Retail Price (MRP), has issued a circular to its members clarifying that hotels and restaurants could continue to sell the same above the MRP. However, it also advised not to sell water bottles or such commodities carrying MRP over the counter at all, and if they do, must be sold at MRP.

The HRAWI is a member association in the western region of the Federation of Hotel and Restaurant Associations of India (FHRAI), the apex body of hotels and restaurants in the country. It issued the circular in response to queries posed by members after a section of the media quoting Consumer Affairs Minister Ram Vilas Paswan carried a news item that selling water and aerated drinks above MRP could attract fine and a jail term. Some news items had also wrongly stated that Hotel Association's cases have been dismissed in High Court and Supreme Court.

"Running the story without appropriate verification has caused confusion and misunderstanding between hoteliers and their patrons. As per the present law, there is no such legal repercussion that can prosecute a hotel or restaurant for the sale of either packaged drinking water or aerated drinks or any such commodity above the MRP while being served in the premises i.e., inside Hotels and Restaurants. So we have advised our members that they can continue selling at suitable rates as the MRP law applies to retailers only," says Mr Pradeep Shetty, Hon Secy, HRAWI & Chairman - Legal Matters sub-committee, FHRAI & HRAWI.

FHRAI had filed a Writ Petition before the Delhi High Court challenging the notices issued under the then prevailing law namely the Standards of Weights and Measures Act for serving water above MRP. The Ld. Single Judge of the Delhi High Court by judgment dated 5.3.2007 in W.P. No 6517 of 2003 allowed the writ petition filed by FHRAI holding inter alia that, "... charging prices for mineral water in excess of MRP printed on the packaging, during the service of customers in hotels and restaurants does not violate any of the provisions of the SWM Act as this does not constitute a sale or transfer of these commodities by the hotelier or restaurateur to its customers. The customer does not enter a hotel or a restaurant to make a simple purchase of these commodities. It may well be that a client would order nothing beyond a bottle of water or a beverage, but his direct purpose in doing so would clearly travel to enjoying the ambience available therein and incidentally to the ordering of any article for consumption..."

"Thereafter, two other Courts (Kerala and Delhi HC) have also held non-applicability of MRP to items sold in hotels and restaurants. It is regrettable that wrong information continues to circulate even on matters like these. Nobody comes to a hotel or a restaurant to purchase goods or commodities; they come to our establishments to enjoy service and ambience. As hoteliers, our primary focus is on providing memorable experiences," concludes Mr. Dilip Datwani, President, HRAWI. ■

Hotel Industry Welcomes 5% GST On Food But Warns Tourism Will Stifle At 18% GST On Rooms

"A 5% GST For Tourism Could Decrease Current Account Deficit, Increase GDP, & Double Up Forex Revenue" – HRAWI

In the recently concluded meet on Good & Services Tax (GST), the Government has declared a four tier structure of 5, 12, 18 and 28 per cent of which the service sector will be taxed at 18 per cent. To this, the Hotel and Restaurant Association of Western India (HRAWI) has warned that tourism could witness a major setback. Citing a recent study conducted by the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) on the impact of taxes on competitiveness of tourism, it has highlighted that most nations recognize tourism as a critical economic driver and follow a Tourism Rate (TR) which is lower than 50 per cent of the Standard Rate (SR) on other sectors.

“It is estimated that the lower GST rate of 5 per cent will contribute to a decrease in our Current Account Deficit, increase in the GDP, doubling up of both foreign and domestic travel and also doubling up of tourism induced employment, across each state and nationally,” says Mr Dilip Datwani, President, HRAWI. “India’s tourism competitors in South East Asia (excluding Japan and China) earn among themselves over $150 billion in foreign exchange and attract almost 100 million tourists annually. It is estimated that a GST rating of under 10 per cent will enable India to increase its price competitiveness and target an additional 10 per cent of this market in the short to mid-term, and up to 20 per cent of this market in the medium to long term. This implies an increase in our foreign exchange earnings from tourism from the current $20 billion to approximately $35 billion in 3 to 5 years and to approximately $55 billion in 5 to 7 years,” he adds.

The study also estimates that a GST rate of 5 per cent will more than double both foreign travel coming to India to 20 million tourists and domestic travel within India to 2.5 billion.

“Indian tourism industry is estimated to be the size of around 2 lakh crores directly and generating an economic multiplier of up to three times the amount. It is driven by over 8 million foreign tourists and by over 1.3 billion domestic tourists. A lower GST has the potential to increase our total economic impact to over 10 lakh crores. This has the potential to increase our total share of GDP to more than 10 per cent against the present 5.5 per cent. The global average GDP contribution from tourism is 14 per cent while in China alone it is at 9 per cent,” adds Mr Datwani.

Tourism is one of the biggest revenue generators of Foreign Exchange to India. Every foreign tourist spending an additional day in the State of Maharashtra alone translates to an incremental revenue of Rs.600 crore which benefits not just the industry but also means additional revenue to the government coffers.

“We welcome the 5 per cent tax slab on food, which is a positive outcome of subsumed taxes for hotels and restaurants. However the 18 per cent levy on services or room revenue in our case, compared to our neighbouring countries which charge a Tourism tax between 4 to 7 per cent, rules out fair competition. Abroad, GST can have least slabs as they have minimum exclusions unlike ours. However, in India, breaking down the GST into tiers for simplifying the rates at which different goods will be taxed is not turning out to be favourable to tourism. A foreign tourist planning a trip across Asia may entirely skip India or spend fewer days in our country on account of these perceived high room rates because we also don’t refund taxes to foreigners like many countries do,” says Mr Kamlesh Barot, past President, Federation of Hotel and Restaurant Associations of India & HRAWI.

Hospitality is one of the biggest drivers of employment in India generating 5 crore jobs directly and indirectly. It absorbs over 7 per cent of skilled, unskilled and semi-skilled workforce.

“It is also estimated that a lower GST for tourism will easily double the jobs in this sector of the employable to 9 per cent from the present 4.5 per cent. This will prevent unplanned urban migration and create livelihood across the hinterland. Tourism has the potential to increase contribution to employment to over 10 per cent. We are still hopeful that the Finance Minister will reconsider and provide a tax rate like the Tourism tax rate applicable in most countries,” concludes Mr Barot. ■

Housekeeping

Important Aspect Of Hospitality Industry

The aim of all Hotels or establishments that offer accommodation is to provide their customers with clean, attractive, comfortable and welcoming surroundings that offer value for money. Nothing sends a stronger message than cleanliness in a hospitality industry. No level of service, friendliness or glamour can equal the sensation a guest has upon entering a spotless, tidy and conveniently arranged room. Both management and guest consider keeping the place clean and in good order a necessity, for a hotel to command a fair price and to get repeat business.

A survey carried out showed 63% travelers rated cleanliness and appearance as their first priority in their choice of hotels. The housekeeping department takes pride in keeping the hotel clean and comfortable so as to create a home away from home. Good housekeeping is considered as the backbone of accommodation sector as its main aim is to provide a clean comfortable, safe and aesthetically appealing environment.

Housekeeping is an operational department of the hotel. It is responsible for cleanliness, maintenance, aesthetic upkeep of rooms, public areas, back areas and surroundings.

Excellent housekeeping is essential to the hospitality industry, even though the work is usually considered mundane. In hotels and on cruise ships, for example, strict cleanliness is the expected standard, and only shortcomings attract attention. In addition to the actual physical cleaning, the housekeeping department performs other important functions, such as scheduling and planning. Some housekeeping supervisors eventually advance to hospitality management, especially with college training.

One of the vital parts of the hospitality industry is the housekeeping department.

Role of Housekeeping Department

The hospitality industry is based on the premise or providing service to customers. One of the main areas of the hospitality industry is the housekeeping department. The housekeeping department is a team of employees that are in charge of the cleaning tasks for an organization.

Depending on the size of the organization the housekeeping department can be small or very large. The housekeeping department is in charge of cleaning guest rooms, public restrooms, and public areas. The housekeepers, traditionally called maids, are the ones in the department that conduct the cleaning. There are also housekeeping supervisors and managers in charge of running the department.

Basic Functions of Housekeeping

The primary function of the housekeeping department is keeping the venue clean and sanitary as part of customer service. Maids and cleaners, vacuum rugs and furniture in hallways, rooms and public areas. They collect trash and empty wastebaskets, change the sheets and make the beds. They refill soap and toilet paper dispensers in public restrooms and put toiletries and supplies in guest rooms. They dust and polish furniture. In some hotels, they bring requested items, such as infant cribs, to guest rooms. These hands-on tasks fall to the actual cleaning staff. Some hotels or cruise ships provide housekeeping everyday. The daily cleaning usually includes cleaning the bathroom, making the bed, vacuuming, dusting, taking the trash out, and replenishing any items in the room. Most hotels change the sheets for a guest every three days. Then, when a guest checks out of a room, the room is cleaned completely and the sheets are changed before a new guest checks in. Next, the housekeeping department is in charge of cleaning all public areas such as the lobby, hallways, and public restrooms. These areas are cleaned multiple times a day. Overall, the basic functions of housekeeping are to keep the facility clean.

Supervisory Functions

The work of organizing and coordinating the cleaning falls to the first-line supervisors and housekeeping managers in a hospitality business. They determine which rooms or areas must be cleaned, make the job schedule, assign tasks and check the work. Scheduling often requires coordinating tasks with other hotel departments and activities to avoid disrupting other services. Supervisors also make sure housekeeping equipment, such as vacuum cleaners and floor polishers, is properly maintained. When they receive complaints, they investigate the issues and see that problems are taken care of. Managers supervise housekeepers in their duties and ensure that they perform to the prescribed hotel standards. Housekeeping duties include cleaning and turning down rooms, re-ordering rooms once guests leave, carrying away room service trays from hallways to the location landings, and checking that all public areas within the hotel are clean and orderly. The manager prepares the daily work schedule and assigns housekeepers to different tasks depending on the hotel requirements for the day. A hotel housekeeping manager is also responsible for fostering team spirit among the housekeepers and directs them toward achieving guest satisfaction.

Monitoring Supplies

Housekeeping managers see to it that hotel guests have adequate supplies both within their hotel rooms and in the public areas that they visit, such as the spa and washrooms. Different categories of hotel rooms entitle guest to different supplies. For example in a standard room, guests might receive only bathroom supplies, while in executive rooms, hotel services could include mini-bars, laundry and pressing services. It is the responsibility of the housekeeping manager to ensure that a hotel guest receives all the housekeeping services. The housekeeping manager conducts a daily and monthly inventory and liaises with the hotel procurement manager to ensure a constant supply of the supplies needed.

Complaints Investigation

Housekeeping managers receive and act on complaints from hotel guests relating to the state of their rooms or public areas. A hotel guest may complain that her room was not properly cleaned or that she does not have supplies that ought to come with the room. In other instances, guests may complain that the physical facilities such as the bathroom fixtures are not functional or that the electrical equipment supplied, such as shavers and kettles, are not working. The complaints are relayed to the housekeeping manager who immediately takes corrective action. The duties of a manager also include reporting on lost-and-found property.

Makes Recommendations

A hotel housekeeping manager is in a unique position to make recommendations about improvements to the hotel services due to his close interaction with the guests. He can contribute to discussions about the efficiency and attractiveness of the hotel and how it can be enhanced. A hotel housekeeping manger can also assist in formulating budgetary, procurement and security policies because his duties involve monitoring each of these areas. The manager can also participate in setting the standards for housekeeping work because his job is about ensuring compliance with them.

Training Functions

Housekeeping management functions belong to higher-level supervisors or managers, depending on the size of the hotel or operation. Workers fulfilling this role need skills in supervision, procurement, budgeting and problem-solving. For example, managers set the housekeeping standards and oversee the training of new hires. Conducting in-service sessions, they teach company policies and the correct use of equipment. Managers track the inventory of supplies, keep payroll records, maintain the department budget and prepare expense and occupancy reports.

They help keep worker morale high and ensure that safety procedures are obeyed.

Job Requirements

Entry-level housekeepers typically learn by helping an experienced worker. Although they need to be in decent physical condition, no formal education is necessary. First-line supervisors usually need at least a high school diploma and experience in housekeeping. At the level of manager, you'll typically need experience as a housekeeping supervisor plus knowledge of office computer software. Although not always required, college training gives you an edge for promotions. Bachelor's degrees in hospitality management are available, and the International Executive Housekeepers Association certifies applicants who meet its education requirements.

Effective Housekeeping is an ongoing operation. Regardless of the size and structure most of the Housekeeping department in hotels will be responsible for cleaning the following are such as.

Guest rooms

Corridors

Public areas, such as the lobby and public toilets

Management Offices

Employee locker rooms

Linen and uniform room

In addition to all above areas Housekeeping departments of star class hotels will be responsible for cleaning the following areas too.

Restaurants

Banquet area

Hotel operated shops

Health & sports center

Since Housekeeping is responsible for cleaning a large area within the hotel it is essential to establish good communication. The Methods used for communication may differ from place to another, but mostly used will be memos, telephone, paging systems, pre-printed forms and computers.

Housekeeping Department Layout in Hotel

The layout of the housekeeping department depends on the total number of Guestrooms, Outlets, and Required Staff. The following areas of the department are the most prominent ones Office of the Executive Housekeeper – The administrative work of the department is carried out here.

- Housekeeping Control Desk – It is accessible and operational 24 hours a day. The housekeeping staff reports at the start and end of the shift here. There are notice boards, storage shelves, registers, lost and found cupboard, and key-hanger matrix.
- Laundry Area – Washing, ironing, dry cleaning, folding of linen and staff uniform takes place here.
- Linen Room – Here, the linen of the hotel such as bed-sheets, towels, pillow cases, etc., are stored, collected, and carried to the required places in the hotel.
- Uniform Room – The staff uniforms are collected, stored, and distributed from here.
- Tailor Room – Here, stitching and repairing of linen and uniforms takes place.
- Housekeeping Stores – It is a storage area where the cleaning equipment and items, and guest supplies are securely stored.
- Lost and found – stores all the items left behind by the guests. It directly communicates with the front office desk, as there the guests tend to first enquire about their lost articles.

In the recent past, the hospitality industry has seen a sea of change. One such area that has seen rapid improvements brought on by the growing use of technology is housekeeping. The long neglected department of housekeeping has been steadily adopting technology to increase efficiency, provide guests with a seamless experience and add to customer delight.

The largest costs in a hotel's balance sheet is manpower. 40% of these manpower expenses are directly linked to housekeeping. Hotels are demanding technology based solutions that can enable them to reduce these costs and optimize manpower through innovative means.

Some of the technology leveraged by the housekeeping department has been iPads and smart phones with specific housekeeping applications, kiosk based stations and text message modules to address guests requests and grievances rapidly. Numerous housekeeping functions such as room cleaning, lost and found, supplies and inventory, accessing mini bar using telephones or kiosks and other mundane functions have been automated using smart housekeeping applications. Complaints from guests can be addressed faster through text messages, rather than through staff stationed at a desk. The constant endeavor is to provide guests with personalized service in the least possible time.

Changing trends in housekeeping

Over a period of time with advancements in technology and modernisation, housekeeping in hotels has undergone changes. Technology has brought a significant change in efficiency and product quality in the housekeeping department. When we speak about housekeeping, we think about high staff turnover caused by a repetitive and physically demanding job and pressure to deliver clean rooms quickly at the lowest possible cost. Technology has brought some relief to the executive housekeepers to monitor guest floor operations. A housekeeping software called The Optii keeper is a housekeeping solution that unites the department to enhance the guest experience while increasing net profits and reducing stress levels in hotels. It is interfaced with PMS of the hotel property. Each room attendant and floor supervisor carries a PDA which is connected via wireless technology and interfaced with the hotel PMS system. Room attendants can see in real time the next room to be cleaned and how long it will take. Duration for cleaning is calculated based on the guest and room profile created through ever changing history. Savings in productivity can be made on actual room cleaning times rather than the current inaccurate room credit system. Other features include an in-built quality control checklist tool on the supervisors' PDA's allowing them to record inspection results. Monthly statistics on average room cleaning time and average quality scores can then be used for focused individual training and counseling. A spring cleaning or special jobs list is also included, ensuring weekly or monthly tasks are in the system and allocated onto the daily cleaning checklist for the Room Attendants to follow. At front office, the dashboard enables front office to see at a glance where the room attendants are and when the rooms will be ready. Integration with the PMS also alerts front office if the room is not going to be ready for the guest's arrival so quick action can be taken.

Advantages of this software are: Improving room attendant productivity by up to 20 per cent

- Saving up to 40 per cent of floor supervisor's time
- Eliminating 80 per cent of phone calls between front office and housekeeping
- Ongoing optimisation of cleaning schedules throughout the day.
- Allowing a fairly spread workload among housekeeping team members.
- Improved quality and staff morale.
- Savings of at least two hours every morning by automating the room allocation process at the push of a button.

In hotels major part of revenue comes from rooms, rooms which is not sold on any night losses revenue forever and reason for poor occupancy can be anything like hygiene factor, cleanliness, lack of modernizing etc. hence main purpose is to improve whole appeal of the room. A guest spend more time alone in his room than any other part of the hotel, so he can check up the cleanliness he wishes to as some of the guest are more health conscious these days.

He may check up dusting, in-depth cleaning and losses confidence if properly not done. If drawers are not cleaned the guest generally won't feel like putting his clothes down. Decent room supplies are service like quick laundry and dry cleaning service shows guest that the hotel is considering his comfort and wishes to please him not only this from the cleanliness of lobby, public area, restaurant, cloakrooms, the state and cleanliness of uniform, the guest can judge a lot about the hotel.

The standard plays an important role in the reputation of the hotels. One feels comfortable only in the environment which is clean and well ordered, so cleanliness is important for health foremost also for well being. Accommodation in hotels tend to be the largest part of the hotel, it is the most revenue generating department, the housekeeping department takes care of all rooms is often largest department in hotels. Housekeeping is considered as the back bone of hospitality industry because efficient working of this department can make customers happy and they would visit the property again and again. It is an important aspect of the hospitality industry as good business lies in the hands of the housekeeping department. Only if the hotel premises and rooms are kept thoroughly clean and managed then only the guest would want to spend their time at the hotel. This makes the housekeeping department one of the most important department in the hospitality industry. ■

SURAT:

THE HISTORICAL COMMERCIAL CENTRE OF GUJARAT

Surat is a port city previously known as Suryapur. It is the economical capital and former princely state in Gujarat. It is the eighth largest city and ninth largest urban agglomeration in India. Surat is the 3rd "cleanest city of India" and 4th fastest growing city of the world. The city is situated on the left bank of the Tapti River, 14 miles from its mouth. This city has many historical buildings which are quite captivating. Surat is mentioned in Sanskrit epic, the Mahabharata, when Lord Krishna stopped there on his way from Mathura to Dwarka. The Parsis began to settle there in the 8th century.

Surat is a major industrial city with many textile mills. Textiles for ceremonial and utility purposes, wood lacquer and ivory handicrafts, embroidery and jewellery has great demand in the world market. Fine silver and gold jewellery crafted in Surat is still a rage here, but this southern most city of the state is today more known for diamond cutting and polishing industry besides the jari and art silk produced there. Some famous places are Chintamani Jain Temple, Diamond Industry, Sardar V Patel Museum and Planetarium.

Bardoli

It is situated 34 Kms. from Surat. This town saw the birth of the No-Tax movement, led by Sardar Patel, in protest of the British rule under which farmers barely had enough to feed their families, let alone to pay the exorbitant taxes. It was a precursor to the Namak Satyagraha, the Salt March. The Swaraj Ashram, garden, museum, and khadi workshops, are well worth a visit, as well as the Aitihasik Ambo, a mango tree under which Gandhiji famously declared that he would settle for nothing less than independent home-rule for India.

Chintamani Jain Temple

The exquisite wooden carvings and paintings are the major attractions of the temple. The temple actively maintained and visited by the city's Jains is situated in the Shahpor area and dates back to 15 century and houses some extremely rare paintings of the Jain monk Acharya Hemachandra, and of the Solanki King Kumarpal. Any visit to the city would be incomplete without a visit here especially for Jains.

Chopati

Chopati of Surat is located in city's main area, Nana Varachha. This is a fancy garden faces river Tapi which adds more beauty to this. Being convenient to reach here from across the city because all main roads connects here, its glitz can be seen on Sunday or any other holidays when not only young boys and girls but also family reaches there to pass time. This is also a very popular place in the city. It has a large garden and provides Indian fast-food.

Chowk

The Chowk, or Main Square built after the 1837 fire which destroyed much of the city, is surrounded by colonial buildings such as an Anglican Church around 1895, Andrews Library of 1907, and the Sir J. J. Training College of 1872.

Dandi

Here you reach the ocean and the historic landmark where the Namak Satyagraha, also known as the Dandi March ended and India's independence began when Mahatma Gandhi picked up a pinch of salt in protest of the British rule. Dandi also has seashore area which is known as Dandi Beach.

Diamond Industry

Around the world, 8 out of 10 diamonds on the market were cut and polished in Surat. This industry earns India about 10 billion USD in annual exports. A legacy of Old Dutch trade links, it began after a Surti entrepreneur returned from East Africa bringing diamond cutters. The rough diamonds themselves, however, come to Surat as rough crystals ripped out mainly from deep under the earth of South Africa and other regions of the continent, and go from here as smooth gems to Antwerp, Belgium where the international diamond trade is run mainly by Hasidic Jews and Jains from Palanpur in North Gujarat.

Dumas Sea Beach

Dumas Beach is an urban beach along the Arabian Sea located 21 kilometers southwest of Surat City. This beach is famous for its black sand. It is a popular tourist destination in south Gujarat. Apart from the beach, places of interest at Dumas including the Dariya Ganesh Temple located adjacent to the main beach. Dumas Sea Beach is an ideal picnic spot. The best time to visit the beach is on tidal days.

Dutch Cemetery

The Dutch as well as Armenian cemeteries at Surat are situated in a locality known as 'Gulam Falia' near the mail road leading to Katargam Gate. The Dutch tombs are of various sizes and shapes, but the one that excels all the rest in magnificence is the grandiose mausoleum of Baron Adrian Van Reede who died in 1691. A massive Dome, beautiful pillars and the huge gallery make it a very outstanding monument.

European Tombs

It is said that the competition between the Dutch and the British followed them even past death. They erected grand mausoleums instead of the normal tombstones in Europe, heavily influenced, ironically, by Hindu and Islamic elements belonging to the very natives to whom they were each trying to prove their superiority as colonizers. Next door to the British and Dutch cemeteries is the churchyard of the Armenians, another important trading community from the 16th century, whose tombstones are heavily inscribed, but forgo the superstructures of the other two communities. The cemeteries have been declared as protected monuments.

Gaurav Path

Gaurav Path is an expressway designed and constructed by the Surat Municipal Corporation as a part of a plan to connect Surat City with its airport, Magdalla Sea Port and Dumas Village. The expressway replaced the prior Surat-Dumas Road and is one of the best examples of Town and City Planning in India.

Gopi Talav and Nav Sa'id Mosque

The lake is named after the memory of Gopi, the Brahmin whose efforts ultimately led to development of Surat. Nav Sa'id Masjid is one of the four main mosques, along with Khudawand Masjid, Sayyid Idris Mosque, and Khwaja Diwan Sahib.

Hajira

A well known health resort is Hajira, south west of Surat on the creek of the Arabian sea. Hajira has two wells with water rich in iron and sulphur. Hajira is situated 28 Kms from Surat. The pleasant Hajira Beach is fringed by feathery 'Casurina' trees and has a comfortable holiday home for visitors.

Jama Mosque
